MOLLY GIVEN, PHILADELPHIA FEATURES EDITOR

Philadelphia is a yuletide wonderland during the holiday season. There is so much going on during the weeks leading up to Christmas. It seems like everywhere you turn, there are dazzling lights, cheerful music and seasonal goodies. I love this time of year, especially in Philly — the sense of community feels so strong, and everyone comes together to celebrate. Although it's not the big day quite yet, it's about time to get in the jolly spirit — even the Scrooges of the city can't resist the festive feeling. Read on for the scoop on all the holiday happenings.

DON'T BE A GRINCH

1 The newly opened Bourse Food Hall is hosting its first-ever "Merry Grinchmas" on Dec. 15. The fun-filled day revolves around all things green and grumpy, but not even the Grinch can stop you from enjoying this celebration.

A ROYAL AFFAIR

2 The Holiday Princess Concert at the Suzanne Roberts Theatre on Dec. 16 is the perfect holiday show for families. Festive songs sung by nine princesses and a meet-and-greet after the show make this magical event a can't-miss.

FEELING FESTIVE

3 Philadelphia has a ton to offer during the weeks leading up to Christmas. Whether it's a light show or holiday festival, there is something for everyone. For more, read pages 4-5.

JINGLE WITH KRIS KRINGLE

4 SantaCon is back for another holiday-themed bar crawl at festive spots around the city on Dec. 15. Sport your best Santa outfit and get ready to celebrate with something a little stronger than milk and cookies.

Yuletide feelings

Here are the best holiday events in Philly to get you in the holly jolly spirit.

MOLLY GIVEN
Molly.Given@metro.us

Christmas is right around the corner, and Philly is full of holly jolly activities to prepare you for the most wonderful time of the year.

Bar 57: Ugly Sweater Christmas Party
Sip some delicious drinks and enjoy a magnificent view 57 floors up at Philly's highest holiday pop-up bar while sporting your best ugly sweater. This festive event will also feature delicious bites from Di Brunos and Insomnia Cookies, plus plenty of pay-as-you-go spirits. There will also be live entertainment from The Mummer's Fralinger String Band, making this one of the best holiday events in Philadelphia.
Dec. 19, 6-8 p.m., One Liberty Observation Deck, 1650 Market St., $10, phillyfromthetop.com

'Glorious Sounds of Christmas'
Bramwell Tovey will be conducting the Philadelphia Orchestra for this magnificent show highlighting all of the best holiday classics. Expect plenty of beloved Christmas tunes like "Jingle Bells" and "Have Yourself a Merry Little Christmas," with a twist.
Dec. 20, 7 p.m. & Dec. 23, 2 p.m., Kimmel Center, 300 S. Broad St., $28-$66, goldstar.com

Craft Hall Pop-Up Restaurant
There's no better way to get into the holiday spirit than by eating some festive and indulgent treats. This indoor restaurant, located on the north side of City Hall, features freshly baked bread, smoked meats, hot cocktails, local beers, wines and more.
Through Dec. 23, 12-9 p.m., 901 N. Delaware Ave., crafthallphilly.com

Franklin Square Holiday Festival
All of Franklin Square lights up to keep the holiday spirit in Philadelphia alive. Everywhere you look there are dazzling lights and festive decorations, plus cheerful holiday music will be playing to make this winter scene truly special. The light show runs nightly throughout the month of December and plays every half-hour. One lucky guest each night will be chosen to kick off the evening's festivities as the Igniter for the 4:30 p.m. show. Other fun activities during the holiday festival include a beer garden, train rides around the square, indulgent treats, Parx Liberty Carousel and Philly Mini Golf. The Franklin Square Holiday Festival is closed on Christmas Day.
Through Dec. 31, 4 p.m., Franklin Square, 200 N. 6th St., historicphiladelphia.org

Trans-Siberian Orchestra
The ultimate showcase of holiday hits is coming to Philly for an unforgettable show. The arena setting makes the whole show feel larger than life, and if this concert can't get you into the Christmas spirit then nothing will. A great show if you are looking for holiday events in Philadelphia.

Tastes like Christmas

Here's where to indulge in drinks, dishes and treats for the holidays in Philly.

MOLLY GIVEN

It's the most wonderful time of the year, and that means that there are plenty of tasty drinks, dishes and treats to try around the city. Whether it's something sweet, savory or a bit stronger like a nice holiday beer, Philly has so much to offer during this festive season.

Urban Village Brewing Co.
The popular Northern Liberties spot is celebrating the holiday season with their Merry XMas Ale. The 9.0% ABV Belgian-style brew features a delicious blend of fruits and spices including orange, juniper berry, ginger, cinnamon, coriander and elderflower. The delicious holiday ale will be available for a limited time. Urban Village is also bringing back its I Am Brut IPA on Dec. 21, just in time for New Years. The bone-dry IPA (6.8% ABV) has zero residual sugars and also has big hop flavors and aromas of grapefruit.
1001 N. 2nd St., urbanvillagebrewing.com

a.kitchen
This month a.kitchen is bringing back its popular cocoa-and-crepes special from Chef Eli Collins for the holiday season. Available only this weekend and next (Dec. 15-16 & 22-23) from 11 a.m. until 5 p.m., indulge in world-class hot chocolate and crepes while in a casual outdoor setting reminiscent of Europe's famed Christmas markets. The perfect choice if you are looking to try treats for the holidays in Philadelphia.
135 S. 18th St., akitchenandbar.com

The ChopHouse
The popular steakhouse is offering delicious holiday lunch options every weekday until Dec. 21 from 11:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. Tasty holiday dishes include tuna tartare, chilled lobster tail and all of ChopHouse's signature salads, steaks, and burgers.
4 Lakeview Dr. S., Gibbsboro, New Jersey, thechophouse.us

Christmas Village
Christmas Village offers some of the best and tastiest treats during the holidays in Philadelphia (döner kebab, Belgian fries, German Gluhwein and more). But the best by far is the savory and indulgent raclette melted cheese. The booth is back for a second year and serving up fresh bites you will have to taste to believe.
Love Park, philachristmas.com

Assembly Rooftop Lounge
Want to warm up with amazing holiday cocktails? Head to Assembly to try their Cool Runnings (Plantation dark pineapple rum, Clement coconut rum, hot chocolate, orange and vanilla whipped cream); Evergreen Tea'Jito (Appleton Reserve rum, brown sugar, green tea, mint and lime); and the Hot Dotty (Jameson whiskey, Laphroaig, ginger, sage, honey and lemon.) It also has a few new iced beverages for those who don't want the heat but still want all the flavor.
1840 Benjamin Franklin Pkwy., assemblyrooftop.com

Barcelona Wine Bar
The delicious and chic wine bar is offering a special holiday menu that is worth the splurge. Festive tasty dishes include gnocchi with chanterelles and white truffle, Nantucket Bay scallops crudo with blood orange and scallions, queso a la plancha with grated truffles and honey, and sunchoke ravioli with Mahón, pignoli and white truffles. These specialty menu items will only be available during the holiday season.
1709 E. Passyunk Ave., barcelonawinebar.com

Iron Hill Brewery & Restaurant
This popular spot has multiple locations around Pennsylvania and New Jersey, meaning there are multiple opportunities to try its new holiday canned brew, the Reindeer's Revenge. This 9.0% ABV American-style Belgian golden ale has complex aromas and flavors of grapefruit, spice and banana with a refreshing hop bitterness.

"Mary Queen of Scots" is now in theaters. FOCUS FEATURES

Margot Robbie and Saoirse Ronan on the cost of being a woman in a male-dominated world

The "Mary Queen Of Scots" stars also recall being set up by Richard Curtis.

GREGORY WAKEMAN
Gregory.Wakeman@metro.us

We have Richard Curtis to thank for Margot Robbie and Saoirse Ronan's friendship and collaboration in "Mary Queen of Scots."

The pair were not only introduced to each other back in early 2016, when Ronan was on Broadway in "The Crucible"; at one of the "Love Actually" director's famous dinner parties, they were purposely seated next to each other by the Englishman, too.

"From that moment on I was like, 'This chick is rad.' I knew I wanted to work with her," Robbie tells Metro. "So when I heard about 'Mary Queen of Scots,' and I knew Saoirse was involved, I immediately wanted to sign up."

There was just one problem, though. Robbie didn't think she could play the historical figure of Queen Elizabeth.

"I didn't go to drama school. I didn't go to university. I had it in my head that in order to play such a prominent historical character I should be well-versed in this world. I didn't feel like I deserved to play her," says Robbie. "Such iconic actors have played her, too. Cate Blanchett. Katharine Hepburn. Helen Mirren. Judi Dench. The list literally doesn't stop. I was like, 'I don't belong in that group.' They're insane. They're so good."

"So are you," is both Ronan's instant response and the ultimate proof of the bond and friendship between the pair, who are formidable as the warring queens of Scotland and England who both felt they were the rightful rulers of the countries.

Robbie ultimately found her way into the film after being told by director Josie Rourke that she would be playing a young woman rather than a queen. This idea of injecting some much-needed youth into the "stuffy" period genre was especially attractive to Ronan, who has spent six years attached to the film.

"What we wanted to bring back into the political drama was youth, and see these women with the fellas they were with — their mates, their kids — and have it be personable," Ronan explains. "You just end up looking back at history and taking it very, very seriously."

But even though the events of the film unfold in the 1500s, both Ronan and Robbie knew that there was a particular timeliness to the material.

"I think the movie in general explores the idea of the cost of power. Especially being a woman in a male-dominated world. And being in a leadership position and the sacrifices you have to make," says Robbie. "In my head, she didn't want to be queen. By the end of the story she had to give up her womanhood. Be nothing more than the queen. The throne. The crown."

For Ronan, the modern resonance of the film is in the similarities between the gaze that's put upon the queens and the one that hounds people in the public eye today.

"People think, 'Oh they have everything.' But all anyone really wants is to connect to another person," says Ronan. "We want people to come away from this and not see them as queens. To see them as people who had a lot of responsibility and a lot of weight on their shoulders and that they were just people doing their best."

Robbie also hopes that "Mary Queen of Scots" can correct the common historical consensus that the struggles between Mary and Elizabeth was "just one big catfight."

"I felt so much frustration on their behalf because of how much the men were holding them apart and pitting them against each other," says Robbie. "They really were yearning for a sister and a confidant, especially Elizabeth. She recognized that Mary was the only human who knew what she was going through, and the position she was in. So it is tragic they were held apart."

"Mary Queen of Scots" is now in theaters.

READER WRITE-INS:

PLEASE WAIT YOUR TURN!
It annoys me when I've patiently waited on line a long time in a store to buy something, and I finally get up to the cashier and out of nowhere a rude, impatient customer comes along asking the cashier for help with a product and has a million questions. The line is behind me! What am I, invisible? Can't you be a decent human and patiently wait your turn like I did? You are causing the cashier to get distracted and possibly mess up my transaction. Plus, you're just being annoying and rude. My time is just as valuable as yours. I waited patiently so you can wait, too, or better yet please go away and stay home and shop online.

Aries If you crave change, make it happen. Go the extra mile and refuse to let anyone stand in your way or meddle in your affairs. Be honest about the way you feel.

Taurus Don't forget what's important at this time of the year. Share what you've got and be grateful for what others share with you. Love and romance will enhance your life.

Gemini Don't trust new acquaintances to tell you the truth. Listen and observe, but don't share your personal opinions or information. Strive for personal growth and integrity.

Cancer Look for opportunities to excel. Consider what you would like to do next year. A change will do you good and should give you more time to explore creative projects.

Leo Have fun with friends, but don't let anyone talk you into being excessive or doing things you shouldn't. You may want to indulge, but limit your intake and protect your reputation.

Virgo Problems at home or with a loved one will mount if there have been miscommunications or opacity about feelings or plans. Do your best to keep the peace.

Libra Your intentions may mislead someone. When it comes to sharing your feelings or plans, you are best off being crystal clear and paying close attention to detail. Words matter.

Scorpio Share something you enjoy with a loved one. A promise will change your life and bring you closer to reaching your long-term goals. Don't let someone from your past disrupt your life.

Sagittarius Listen attentively, but don't believe everything you hear. Take on only what you know you can handle. Falling short will change the way people view you.

Capricorn Look back at a past gaffe and learn from what unfolded if you want to avoid making a similar mistake now. Trust your heart and share your feelings.

Aquarius Don't wait for someone else to go first or steal your idea. Do things for yourself and others, and take credit where credit is due to find success and happiness.

Pisces Don't underestimate someone's persuasive power. Emotional manipulation is apparent. Giving in to temptation will be your downfall. A practical outlook will help you avoid a costly mistake. EUGENIA LAST

Free Narcan doses given out in state

To combat the opioid crisis, 3,000 doses were distributed.

ISTOCK

Philadelphia has been noted in recent years for the grim distinction of having one of the highest rates of fatal opioid overdoses of any American city. In an effort to stem the tide, state and local authorities distributed free anti-overdose drugs in Philly on Thursday.

"We cannot get someone into treatment if they are dead," Gov. Tom Wolf said in a statement announcing the week of public health-focused events. "Naloxone saves lives and we should all carry it, because you never know when you will get the chance to help someone."

As of 3 p.m. on Thursday, 3,000 doses of Narcan had already been distributed, and dozens of locations around the state had completely run out of stock.

"We were hopeful that we would have this response to the naloxone distribution," Secretary of Health Dr. Rachel Levine said. "We are excited that Pennsylvanians are stepping up to help save lives. We are going to look to do this type of event again to make naloxone available."

Levine previously signed a standing order in April authorizing a "prescription" for naloxone for anyone who needs to obtain the medicine to help a loved one struggling with addiction from any pharmacy, which will remain active indefinitely.

The Dec. 13 event was part of the state of Pennsylvania's "Stop Overdoses in PA Week." Free doses of naloxone, a generic form of Narcan, the opioid overdose reversal drug, were distributed around the state and in Philly at Free Library branches.

Philadelphia Department of Public Health trainers participated in training sessions at some library branches for the public, showing them how to administer naloxone — which is a spray medication administered nasally.

‘Holiday spike’ in suicides is a myth: UPenn study

WIKIMEDIA COMMONS

It is commonly believed that the holiday season is to blame for a spike in suicides although statistically, it just isn’t true, a new study by UPenn’s Annenberg Public Policy Center found.

The study places blame on the media, specifically news media and novels like Jeffrey Eugenides’ “The Virgin Suicides,” even as it seeks to debunk the myth that the happy times of the holidays — families reuniting, end-of-year festivities, celebrations everywhere — can make the depressed feel worse, and leads to a spike in suicides.

But researchers at the Annenberg Public Policy Center (APPC), a program of UPenn’s Annenberg School for Communication, found that the media in particular perpetuates the baseless myth.

“In the 2017-18 holiday season, two-thirds of the print news and feature stories that mentioned both the holidays and suicide drew a false connection between them,” the Annenberg Center announced. Those numbers are the same as the 2016-17 season, up from just 50 percent in the 2009-2010 season.

The Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC), which tracks suicide stats, found in 2015 that November and December had the two lowest rates of suicides per day for the entire year (each averaging 111.9 suicides per day).

The highest average suicide-per-day rates were in spring and summer, peaking in the months of May, July and March (averaging 127.94, 127.23 and 126.94 suicides per day across the U.S., respectively).

“Although many of the stories supporting the myth were published in rural areas, we hope that greater awareness of actual suicide risk will help residents of those regions to better cope with whatever stresses they might experience during the holiday period,” said Dan Romer, research director of the Annenberg Public Policy Center (APPC).

Wave of bomb threats reported across US, but credibility questioned

A rash of bomb threats were received on Thursday across the United States targeting dozens of businesses, public buildings and facilities, but the credibility of those threats could not immediately be ascertained, law enforcement officials said.

Police departments in several U.S. cities said on Twitter that local businesses had received a bomb threat in an email demanding payment in Bitcoin currency.

Among the cities where bomb threats were reported by authorities on official Twitter accounts were New York, Detroit, San Francisco, Oklahoma City, Denver and Raleigh, North Carolina.

The FBI has launched a query into the matter, noting that a similar wave of threats to schools and other public buildings occurred a year or more ago without consequence, but the authenticity of the latest batch was not immediately confirmed, a law enforcement official told Reuters.

Eagles vs. Rams: What to watch

The defending Super Bowl champs will try to keep playoff hopes alive one last time, with Nick Foles under center.

JOVAN ALFORD
jovan.alford@metro.us

After losing a heartbreaking game in Dallas last week, the Philadelphia Eagles (6-7) are back on the road to take on the Los Angeles Rams (11-2) on Sunday night football (8:20 p.m. ET, NBC).

Just like the Eagles, Rams are coming off of a tough road loss against the upstart Chicago Bears. The Bears defense neutralized Los Angeles' high-flying offense and forced quarterback Jared Goff into throwing four interceptions.

With that being known, the Rams are looking to get back on track as they try to take home-field advantage away from the New Orleans Saints in the NFC.

When these two teams played each other last season, it was a classic at the Coliseum. The Eagles, who lost Carson Wentz to a season-ending knee injury in the third quarter, rallied behind Nick Foles and the defense to pull out a 43-35 victory.

However, do not expect another game like that this time around, as Wentz reportedly has a fractured vertebra and is not expected to play. Here are three things to watch out for in this late-season NFC matchup.

FOLES BACK UNDER CENTER

After not playing in the last 11 games due to Wentz, Nick Foles will more than likely be back under center for this Sunday night affair.

Foles last played in Week 2, where the Eagles suffered a tough 27-20 loss to the Tampa Bay Buccaneers. In that game, he completed 72.9 percent of his passes for 334 yards with a touchdown.

Coincidentally, the veteran quarterback replaced Wentz in last season's game against L.A., after Wentz suffered a catastrophic season-ending knee injury. If Foles and the offense can somehow manage to pull off the improbable, it will be a miracle.

GETTING PRESSURE ON GOFF

If the Eagles want to have any chance of pulling off an upset on Sunday night, it starts with applying pressure on Goff. In normal circumstances, I would say that the defense needs to contain running back Todd Gurley. But he is going to get his stats, especially after being held to 58 total yards of offense against the Bears.

Last week, Chicago's stout defense did a great job of making the third-year quarterback uncomfortable in the pocket and forced him into multiple mistakes. They also sacked him three times and landed eight quarterback hits. It was the first time Goff has thrown that many interceptions in his career.

Therefore, the Eagles' defensive line, led by Michael Bennett, must get in his face early and often because you do not want Brandin Cooks in a favorable one-on-one matchup against a laboring Sidney Jones or De'Vante Bausby.

IT'S GOEDERT TIME

In last week's game against the Cowboys, the Eagles offense struggled a lot in the first half (70 yards of total offense, four first downs). However, in the second half things started to improve as they went into a lot of 12 personnel, featuring two tight ends.

While Dallas' defense made it an emphasis to keep star tight end Zach Ertz under wrap, it allowed rookie tight end Dallas Goedert to eat. Goedert had four receptions on five targets for 44 yards and a touchdown.

Overall, he has 25 receptions on 36 targets for 254 yards and touchdowns. It is very clear that the second-round pick has a ton of talent and it's time for the Eagles to make him an integral part of the offense.

They have not been using Golden Tate correctly and Nelson Agholor's production is being affected by this. Therefore, Philly needs a viable third receiving option to get them through the last three games of the season.

With the Viagra Patent About to Expire, a New Sex Pill Takes the Spotlight

A patented pill costing less than $1 a dose stands to help millions of men with failing sex lives; no prescription will be required

By Ray Wilson
Associated Health Press

AHP – A new sex pill is set to take the spotlight with the Viagra patent about to expire. But unlike the former, it won't require a prescription and is priced just under a $1 a dose.

The new pill called Vesele is part of a new class of performance enhancers for men, which work instantaneously on the body and mind triggering arousal and firmer, harder erections.

Formulated with a special compound known as an "accelerator", Vesele can transport its active ingredients faster and more efficiently into the blood stream, where it begins to work its magic.

The patented ingredient blend initiates a process known as vasodilation, which causes arteries and vessels throughout the body to expand. This allows blood to flow directly to penis and genitals, resulting in harder erections which last longer. Cialis and Viagra are based around a simlilar concept.

But what makes Vesele so remarkable, and what these other sex pills can't do, is that also directs a small portion of this blood flow to the brain, which creates feelings of intense arousal. In laymen's terms, users become incredibly excited and turned on.

This is why the makers of Vesele say their pill has worked so effectively in clinical trials. It stimulates the two most important organs for great sex, the penis and the brain.

The Brain Erection Connection

Until now, medical researchers did not fully understand the brain-erection connection. It has now been made clear with Vesele. When both are supplied with a constant blood flow, men are harder and firmer for longer...and have unbelievable sex drives.

"Most of the research and treatment methods for men's sexual failures have focused on physiological factors and have neglected the emotional ones. For the leading sex drugs to work, like Cialis and Viagra, you need visual stimulation" explains Dr. Henry Esber, the creator of Vesele.

"And although they work for some men, the majority experience absolutely no fulfillment during sex.

According to research published by the National Institute of Health, 50% of men taking these drugs stop responding or can't tolerate their side effects...and on top of that they spend $50 per pill and it doesn't even work half the time.

This is what makes Vesele so different and effective. It floods the blood stream with key ingredients which cause arteries all over the body to expand. The patented accelerator speeds up this process even more.

The result is a rush of blood flow to the penis and brain, helping to create an impressive erection and a surging desire for sex. Often, this is all men need to get going. And when taken regularly, many men say they are energized and aroused all day."

Great Sex At Any Age

With the conclusion of their latest human clinical use survey trial, Dr. Esber and his team are now offering Vesele in the US. And regardless of the market, its sales are exploding.

Men across the country are eager to get their hands on the new pill and according to the research, they should be.

In the trial above, as compared to baseline, men taking Vesele saw a staggering 85% improvement in erection hardness over a four-month period. Their erections also lasted twice as long.

These same men also experienced an astounding 82% increase in the desire for sex (libido/sex drive) and an even greater improvement in overall satisfaction and ability to satisfy their partners.

Many men taking Vesele described feeling horny and aroused through the day. The anticipation before sex was amazing. They were also easily turned on. Their moods were more upbeat and positive, too.

Faster Absorption into the Blood Stream

Vesele is made up of three specialized ingredients: two clinical strength vasodilators and a patented absorption enhancer often called an accelerator. According to an enormous amount of clinical data, each is very safe.

Research shows that with age, many men lose their desire and interest in sex. They also struggle to produce an erection firm enough for penetration.

And although there are many theories as to why this happens (including a loss in testosterone) one thing is certain, inadequate blood flow is virtually always to blame. That's why sex drug manufacturers focus on blood flow, it makes your erection hard.

But what's more surprising, and what these manufacturers have failed to consider, is that lack of blood flow can also kill your sex drive. That's because blood supplies energy for the brain. This energy is required for creating brainwaves that cause excitability and arousal.

Studies show the Vesele stimulates the entire cardiovascular system, including the arteries that lead to both the brain and penis. The extreme concentration of the ingredients combined with the accelerator ensures that this process starts quickly.

The sexual benefits of Vesele are also multiplied as its ingredients build up in the system over time. This is why many men take it every single day.

Expiring Patent Opens the Door to a New Sex Pill: Vesele is a new pill that cost just $1 a dose does not require a prescription. It works on both body and mind to increase arousal and erection hardness.

Recent Studies Show Positive Effects on Women

In the same study referenced throughout, Vesele was also shown to have an amazing (and somewhat surprising) effect on women too. That's because the same arteries and vessels that carry blood and oxygen to the brain and genitals are the same in men and women.

"In our most recent study, women taking Vesele saw a stunning 52% improvement in arousal and sex drive. Perhaps more impressive, they also experienced a 57% improvement in lubrication.

You can imagine why some couples are taking Vesele together. Everything feels better. Everything works better. Everyone performs better. It's truly amazing."

A New Frontier of Non-Prescription Sex Pills

With daily use, Vesele is helping men (and women) restore failing sex lives and overcome sexual lets downs without side effect or expense.

Through a patented absorption enhancer, the Vesele formula hits the bloodstream quickly, resulting in phenomenal improvements in erection firmness and hardness. By boosting blood flow to the brain, users also experience sexual urges and arousal they often haven't felt in years.

Where to Find Vesele

This is the official release of Vesele in Pennsylvania. As such, the company is offering a special discounted supply to anyone who calls within the next 48 hours.

A special hotline number and discounted pricing has been created for all Pennsylvania residents. Discounts will be available starting today at 6:00AM and will automatically be applied to all callers.

Your Toll-Free Hotline number is 1-800-749-4416 and will only be open for the next 48 hours. Only a limited discounted supply of Vesele is currently available in your region.

NFL Week 15: Texans to get back on track vs. Jets

ROBERT CRISCOLA
letters@metro.us

The Texans are favored over Sam Darnold and the Jets. GETTY IMAGES

HOUSTON TEXANS (-6) AT NEW YORK JETS

Moneyline: Texans -265, Jets +225

Betting Total: 41.5 points

Saturday's Texans-Jets clash (4:30 p.m. ET, NFL Network) could be ugly in more ways than one as heavy rain is expected to soak MetLife Stadium throughout the day.

The Texans had a nine-game win streak snapped by the upstart Colts last Sunday. Lamar Miller and Alfred Blue were held to just 89 yards by Indy, but they should be licking their chops as they match up against the NFL's 27th-ranked run stoppers here. Miller and Blue should get a slew of carries if the weather is especially inclement.

New York forced three Bills turnovers last week as they ended a six-game slide, but they'll have a hard time duplicating that against the Texans, who have a plus-nine turnover differential on the year. Rookie signal caller Sam Darnold is still a little green, and he'll have to deal with a prodigious pass rush led by J.J. Watt.

Prediction: Texans win, 20-10

The play: Texans -6, Texans vs. Jets Under 41.5 points, one unit each

TENNESSEE TITANS AT NEW YORK GIANTS (-2.5)

Moneyline: Titans +125, Giants -145

Betting Total: 43.5 points

The Giants aren't mathematically eliminated from the playoffs yet thanks to a 4-1 straight-up run (4-0-1 ATS) over their last five games. They'll host a Jekyll-and-Hyde Titans team that looks due for another letdown.

Tennessee has one of the league's best defenses, but the '85 Bears would have a hard time holding down Saquon Barkley at the moment. He's rushed for over 100 yards in four straight contests and has added nearly another 100 reception yards. New York's offense would only be helped by the return of Odell Beckham Jr. (quad).

Derrick Henry was sublime in a 30-9 shellacking of the Jaguars last Thursday, but the way the Titans have played this year, it wouldn't be all that surprising if he was a non-factor this week.

Prediction: Giants win, 27-23

The play: Giants -2.5
